

Reserve Police Officers:

Coronado Police Reserves are people from the community who volunteer their time working as Level 1 Reserve Police Officers. Most Reserve Officers have full time jobs, own small businesses, are students, or are in the military.

Reserve Officers have full police officer powers while on-duty. Our Reserve Officers supplement the patrol division as a solo or second officer in the field. Most Reserve Officers work patrol, learning the same techniques and skills as full time officers. Reserve Officers also work special events; such as parades, community events, mutual aid, and crime scene preservation.

The Coronado Police Department is always looking for talented men and women who have a desire to serve their community to join our Reserve Police Officer program. As a Coronado Reserve Police Officer, you will learn the basics of Law Enforcement from the ground up. Every day will offer new learning experiences as you develop and sharpen the skills necessary to be an effective member of our patrol division. Reserve officers are required to attend the Police Academy for P.O.S.T. certification prior to employment.
